Jennifer Kong

Los Angeles City Sanitation Industry Program Manager

Creating a Win-Win Pretreatment Program by Building Collaborative Partnerships

Industry is vital to Los Angeles employment and economy. The City of Los Angeles collaborates with businesses to build a sustainable program that provides business friendly environmental policies and meets regulatory requirements. Jennifer Kong will detail the program. Its goals include reduced health risk and reduced environmental footprints. The program partners businesses with resources that offer financial incentives, loans and grants, regulatory guidance, workforce development, smart manufacturing advanced technology, innovative solutions and business strategies that result in profitable businesses that are environmental stewards.
